Dangerous Rehearsal Worn Plaid Shirt and Levi's Pants (1992)

Plaid shirt and black Levi's worn by Michael during 1992 rehearsals for the "Dangerous" tour. Sewn into the hem of the shirt is a "Dennis Tompkins" and "Michael Bush" designer label.

From Gotta Have It/Golden Closet:

The long sleeved button-front plaid shirt is made of a cotton and rayon blend and has tan, brown, navy, aqua and purple stripes made by Mondo Marco. Sewn into the hem of the shirt is a "Dennis Tompkins" and "Michael Bush" designer label, the two-man designer and stylist team that created and implemented Mr. Jackson's look and image for 25 years. The black jeans are the classic Levi's 501 with a size 28 waist and 36 inseam. While on a break from rehearsals, MJJ started a water balloon fight with his two nephews, Elijah and Levon and got soaking wet. Before he could return to rehearsals he needed to change into dry clothing, so one of Mr. Jackson's stylists gave him his personal shirt and provided him with a pair of Mr. Jackson's own Levi's and shoes. The three were photographed riding in a studio golf cart where Mr. Jackson can be viewed wearing the outfit. He also wore the outfit while being photographed for a Pepsi-Cola promotional photo on the same day. Accompanied by a letter of authenticity from Michael Jackson's designers. Presented by The Golden Closet, your premiere source for screen used wardrobe, props, and music entertainment memorabilia. Photos and descriptions are the sole property of The Golden Closet.

Sold by Gotta Have It (Lot #8) for $10,382.40 at their 3/11/10 Rock & Roll Auction. All screen captures are the property of their respective owners.
